Identity & Access Forum

"101"

In August 2022, the Secure Technology Alliance unveiled changes to streamline its organization.

“As we enter our fourth decade, we celebrate our rich legacy of achievements and are gratified that the collaboration our organization enables is more important than ever,” said Jason Bohrer, executive director of the Secure Technology Alliance. “To position us for future success, we are implementing changes that will better serve our organization’s members, their industries and their clients.”
